Six Witnesses Called in Bribe Inquiry; JURY PROBES GRAFT

Hapid Progress Made in Investigation of Alderman Linsehan's Accusations.
Alderman Examined After City Clerk Donovan, the First Witness.

Witnesses Examined in Bribery Investigation
Alderman Frank J. Linsehan, Councilman William S. Newton, Representative Eugene V. Brennan, Clerk Edward Donovan, John E. F. Moynihan, George W. Gordon.
Within less than two hours today the special Grand Jury which met to investigate the charges of bribery made by Alderman Frank J. Linsehan against members of the Board of Aldermen had heard the testimony of six witnesses whom he expected to substantiate his charges of bribery.

NEW WITNESS ENTERS.
This new witness entered into the case this morning George Gordon of South Boston. He was called for five minutes.

TEN MEN ACCUSED.
The ten men whom Linsehan accused of having accepted bribes in connection with the passage over the Mayor's veto of the National Bank Trust bill are John E. Baldwin, Frederick E. Bolton, Patrick Donohue, Edward L. Connelley, Louis M. Nolan, William J. Hennessey, James J. Clark, William J. Hennessey, James J. Clark, and John E. O'Neil. All these were present today.

ALDERMAN ARE PRESENT.
In this time every member of the Board of Aldermen was present in the court building except Alderman Clark and Bromberg, who are expected later today. Linsehan himself arrived at twenty minutes to 10 o'clock, accompanied by his counsel and the three men named, whom he depends upon to substantiate his story.

George Burroughs of the National Debt Trust, and his partner, Mr. De Bolo, were present with their books. Mr. Burroughs has admitted that some time ago he paid money to take leaders for their support.

Linehan's Bribery Charges Which Caused Investigation

This is from the official transcript of the Aldermanic session of August 8, and forms the basis of the Grand Jury action.

Alderman Linsehan—You, Mr. Alderman (pointing to Alderman O'Toole), were bought, and were bought cheap; and you, Mr. Alderman from the Back Bay (Alderman Frothingham), were bought; and they bought you cheap, too. And I want to say to you, Mr. Alderman from South Easton (pointing to Alderman Baldwin), that you were bought, and bought cheap; and as were you (pointing to Alderman Hennessey), and you were also bought cheap.

Alderman Hennessey—Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

Alderman Linsehan—And the gentleman from Ward 17 was bought, but not so cheap.

The Chair—The gentleman will be in order.

Alderman Linsehan—For it was agreed that you should handle the proposition.

The Chair—Alderman Linsehan will be seated.

Alderman Linsehan—The member from East Boston (referring to Alderman Nolan), the member from Charlestown (Alderman Cauley) and the other member from Dorchester (Alderman Clark) were all bought, and bought cheap; but you, Mr. Alderman (pointing to Alderman Curley), received twice as much, because you handled the matter; and, Mr. Chairman—

Alderman Hennessey—Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman—

Alderman Linsehan—Mr. Chairman, I will not relinquish my right to the floor.

The Chair—The Chair recognizes Alderman Hennessey. For what purpose do you rise?

Alderman Hennessey—Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

Alderman Linsehan—Mr. Chairman, I want that statement put into the records of the board, in order that the people may know how this thing was put through.

The Chair—The Alderman will suspend.

MATE'S LIFE LOST IN WEEK OF SCORCH

THREE-MASTER FRANK E. HASKELL SINKS ON HANDKERCHIEF SHOAL.

CHATHAM, Aug. 21.—One life was lost at midnight when the three-masted schooner of Frank E. Haskell sank on Handkerchief Shoal.

The victim was Mate John Paulsen, who stayed aboard the ill-fated craft after Captain Arthur Windfield, the cook and three men had taken to the schooner's long boat and were tiring alongside.

When the schooner gave a sudden list and the mate, it was too late for Mate Paulsen to save himself. It was dark and the survivors are not sure whether or he sank while on deck or was drawn helplessly beneath the waves.

Nothing could be done by the mate in the small boat to save the mate. Memorable Monday night, the mate was not even covering him to the water, but the sea was so rough that he could not reach the boat. Captain Windfield and the crew were rescued.

Mrs. Elsie Raymond, Pretty Young Woman, and Her Husband Closely Examined by Officials in Search for Explanation of the Mysterious Murder of Mattie Hackett.

Special to the Boston American.
READFIELD, Me., Aug. 21.—Seeking light on the amazing mystery of murder which surrounds the death by garroting of pretty Mattie Hackett within sound of her father's voice and under circumstances which have seemed thus far inexplicable, the investigating officials to-day closely questioned Mrs. Elsie Hobbs Raymond and her husband, Bert Raymond. Mrs. Raymond is known to have been in her house for several hours on the evening of the Hackett crime; to-day she was asked her whereabouts.

In police parlance this questioning is known as the "third degree." It is a method frequently adopted to bring out facts which are not otherwise revealed.

District Attorney Leigh and High Sheriff Ham, who arrived here early to-day, questioned Mr. Raymond and her husband as they have questioned others whose names have been handed about as having knowledge of the circumstances which might furnish a motive for the murder of the girl.

APPEARANCE.
While this questioning of Mrs. Raymond and her husband was going on, other officers were investigating a new clue which may throw light on the mystery. This is a statement that a man who is known to have been infatuated with pretty eighteen-year-old Mattie Hackett, who first met her at a dance and whose attentions were later rejected, has mysteriously disappeared.

According to the story, which has come to the ears of the officials, the man and Miss Hackett's mother or so ago. He danced with her several times and later wrote her a note signed "Elsie" and so on. It seems that she refused his advances, and then he grew angry and made some remarks about her. On Thursday afternoon he disappeared from the farm where he was employed, stating that he was going to Manchester, and since then he has not been seen.

RAYMONDS MET AT HOTEL.
Mrs. Elsie Hackett is twenty-two years old and a handsome and well-dressed woman. She is the daughter of Elsie Hackett, a farmer of North Yarmouth, Me., and the wife of Bert Raymond, a hatter in the employ of the Hackett family. She has been married about a year and a half. Two years ago this summer she was employed as a dressmaker in the Hackett home. There it was that she met and became acquainted with the man who is now being sought.

RODE WITH RAYMOND.
Miss Hackett was working for a short time at the hotel. She was driven to and from her home nearly every day, although she occasionally suffered. Early one evening Bert Raymond, who works about the hotel, saw her alone in the room. He told her that he had come to see her and that he had a proposition to make to her. She refused his advances and gave him to understand that she was not interested in him.

WAS AT HOME FOR A FEW DAYS.
It was at her home that the victim first met and became acquainted with the man who is now being sought. She was driven to and from her home nearly every day, although she occasionally suffered. DEATH OF RULER OF ITALY

Attempt on Life of Queen Margherita Reveals Plan to Slay Royal Family.

MANY SUSPECTS ARRESTED

ROME, Aug. 21.—A widespread anarchist plot against the reigning house of Italy was revealed today by a daring attempt to assassinate Queen Margherita, mother of King Victor Emmanuel and the most beloved woman in the kingdom, while touring the Alps in her motor car.

Two arrests have been made, the entire police force of Italy is at work and it is expected that a number of other prisoners will be taken.

The Queen and the ladies and gentlemen of her suite escaped death by a miracle. The Queen's chamberlain, the news of the attempt to assassinate Queen Margherita, had been received on a sharp turn of the road at which the motor car was passing. It seemed almost certain that a bullet, coming with the breeze at high speed, would be dashed down the terrible

Fortunately, the car hit a pile of rocks as with a master as he is overturned and the assassin. The machine was hurled along at the time, and although the Queen and everyone in her party were saved, two men were severely hurt.
